

Jackson County 4-H

Livestock Clinics and 2015 Fed Cattle Show Weigh-In

Don't miss out!

Who: Anyone ages 5-18
Topic: Nutrition, Health, Showmanship and Record Keeping

Jackson County 4-H Livestock Clinics and Weigh-In for Fed Cattle Show

Dates: September 13, 2014 and September 27, 2014 (Official Weigh-in)
Time: 8:30 AM to 11:30 AM
Where: Jackson County Ag Center (Hwy. 90)

Vaccinations will be available at both clinics. On September 27, 2014, Dr. Carolyn Gable, DVM of Keller Veterinary Services, will be with us to write Official Certificates of Veterinary Inspection (OCVI), as will be Dr. Mary Gessert, VMO with USDA, APHIS, Veterinary Services, who will share information regarding bio-safety issues with livestock. For more information contact the 4-H Office at (850) 482-9620, or email Angel Granger, 4-H Agent at amgranger@ufl.edu. Also, you may contact Stacey Warden, Livestock Club Leader at (850) 693-3275.

If you are interested in:

- Cattle, goats, swine, poultry or rabbits
- Feed management skills
- Showmanship
- Meeting new friends
- Just having fun

REMEMBER:

A livestock project is a family affair, so bring your parents and come prepared to have a good time in

SHOW SEASON 2014!

There are many varieties of 4-H Clubs and Projects.

No matter what your interest is, the UF/IFAS Jackson County 4-H Youth Development Program has something to offer. To be a bona-fide 4-H member you must have at least one active 4-H project per year. If you need further information concerning any of the 4-H Clubs or projects offered, please contact your 4-H Agent, Angel Granger or the Program Assistant Patti Peacock at the 4-H Office at 482-9620.

The Foundation for the Gator Nation

An Equal Opportunity Institution

4-H is a community of young people across America who are learning leadership, citizenship and life skills. 4-H is open to all youth between the ages of 5-18, regardless of gender, race, creed, color, religion, or disability.