History of the Panhandle Youth Expo

In 2010, the Panhandle Youth Expo was born! In response to a need in the community, individuals and organizations from Jackson County combined forces to put an event together that would provide an opportunity for community youth to learn important life skills, such as a healthy work ethic, responsibility, record keeping, and how to care for animals. These organizations include the Jackson County School Board, Extension Office, Cattlemen's Association, the Jackson County 4-H and FFA Chapters, the Jackson County Sheriff's Office, and individuals throughout our community.

The first year, students from Jackson, Washington and Calhoun counties exhibited a total of 59 hogs, 18 chickens and 87 beef cattle. The Expo has expanded categories from the first year, and now includes cattle, goats, hogs, poultry, rabbits, and non-livestock arts & crafts.

Many of the participating youth have exhibits in multiple categories. This year, there are a total of 358 individual entries spread over the various show categories. This is an increase of 112 overall entries from 2013.

Thank you, Jackson County! Through the continued support of local businesses and individuals who contribute time, money and support, the Panhandle Youth Expo will continue to grow and meet the needs of our community youth.
